PREFACE.

IN the present age, as science and learning advance apace, the laws and customs of our ancestors, upon which our civil and municipal rights are founded, should be seriously considered and well understood. Any production, it is presumed, will be acceptable, which tends to facilitate so essential a study.

The celebrated Commentaries of Sir William Blackstone abound in Latin, Greek, French, Norman, and other sentences, illustrating his opinions in the language of the writers from whom he derived them. The reputation which that grand digest of our laws has acquired, proves its superiority and general estimation. The other works from whence I have taken the extracts are treatises upon each branch of the law, together with the justice of the peace. In the whole of them are interspersed numerous sentences, the very essence of which is enveloped in foreign languages, difficult to translate, and the literal meaning of which appears unconnected with the subject, unless the many idioms of each language are observed with the strictest scrutiny.

I have adhered as closely as possible to a literal translation, that the matter of the original extracts might be faithfully interpreted: in a few cases the obscurity of the ancient law phrases has obliged me to insert an explanation; in others, to add a second translation. The alphabetical arrangement will afford immediate reference and information.

I take this opportunity of acknowledging the assistance I have derived from the abilities of my friends, Mr. Henry Young and Mr. J. T. Gogerly, in the preparation of this Glossary.

Cum. When; as; whereas.

Cum autem emptio et venditio contracta sit, periculum rei venditæ statim ad emptorem pertinet, tametsi adhuc ea res emptori tradita non sit. Itaque si—aut ædes totæ vel aliqua ex parte incendio consumptæ fuerint—emptoris damnum est, cui necesse est, licet rem non fuerit nactus, pretium solvere. For when a purchase and sale is contracted, the risk of the thing sold immediately pertains to the purchaser, although that thing be not as yet delivered to the purchaser. Therefore, if either an entire house, or some part of it, be consumed by fire—the loss is the purchaser's, who must pay the price, although he has not obtained the property.

Cum in tali casu possit eadem res pluribus aliis creditoribus tum prius tum posterius invadiari. As in such case, the same property may be pledged to many other creditors, as well before as after the first pledge.

Cum lex abrogatur, illud ipsum abrogatur, quo non eam abrogari oporteat. When a law is repealed, that very clause is at the same time repealed, which specifies that it ought not to be repealed.

Cum olim in usu fuisset, alterius nomine agi non posse, sed, quia hoc non minimam incommoditatem habebat, cæperunt homines per procuratores litigare. When it was formerly the custom, that nothing could be done in the name of another, but, since it did not possess the smallest inconvenience, men began to sue by their proctors.

Cum sit contra præceptum Domini, non tentabis Dominum Deum tuum. As it is against the commandment of our Lord, thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

Cum testamento annexo. With the will annexed.

Cunctas nationes et urbes populus aut primores, aut singuli regunt: delecta ex his et constituta reipublicæ forma laudari facilius quam evenire, vel, si evenit, haud diuturna esse potest. The people, or chiefs, or individuals, govern all nations and cities: the form of a government chosen from them, and so constituted, may be more easily praised for its theory than practice, or if it be so constituted, it cannot long exist.

Demoratur. He abides; he demurs.

De nautico fœnore. Of nautical interest (or usury;) bottomry.

Denarii. Roman pence, each of the value of seven pence halfpenny, or eight pence of our money.

Denique, cum lex Mosaica, quanquam inclemens et aspera, tamen pecunia furtum, haud morte, mulctavit; ne putemus Deum, in nova lege clementiæ qua pater imperat filiis, majorem induisse nobis invicem sæviendi licentiam. Hæc sunt cur non licere putem; quam vero sit absurdum, atque etiam perniciosum reipublicæ, furem atque homicidam ex æquo puniri, nemo est (opinor) qui nesciat. Finally, as the Mosaic law, although unmerciful and severe, punished theft only by a pecuniary penalty, not by death; we cannot suppose that God, in the new law, by which as the Father of mercy he governs his children, has given to us a greater privilege of acting cruelly to each other. These are the reasons why I do not consider it to be lawful; no man exists (I think) who does not know how truly absurd, and even injurious to the republic, it must be, that a thief and a murderer should be liable to the same punishment.

De non decimando. Of not being subject to tithes.

De non ponendis in assisis et juratis. Of being exempted from attending in assizes and juries.

De novi operis nuntiatione. Of the declaration of the new work.

Ealder. An elder (or chief).

Ealdorman. An elder (or alderman).

Ealdormen quasi. As if elder-men.

Ea est in re parva pervicacia, ipsi fidem vocant.
That which is obstinacy in depravity, they call honour.

Eat consultatio. That the consultation go.

Eat inde sine die. That he go from thence without a day.

Ecclesia commendata. A commendam.

Ecclesia decimas non solvit ecclesiæ. The church does not pay tithes to the church.

Ecclesiæ de feudo domini regis non possunt in perpetuum dari, absque assensu et consensione ipsius. Churches in the fee of our lord the king cannot be given in perpetuity, without his assent and permission.

E converso. On the contrary; on the other hand.

Edmundus autem latusferreum, rex naturalis de stirpe regum, genuit Edwardum: et Edwardus genuit Edgarum, cui de jure debebatur regnum Anglorum. For Edmund Ironside, the lawful king descended from a race of kings, begot Edward: and Edward begot Edgar, who of right was entitled to the crown of England.

Ego Stephanus Dei gratia assensu cleri et populi in regem Anglorum electus, &c. I Stephen, by the grace of God, with the assent of the clergy and the people, chosen king of the English, &c.

Ei incumbit probatio, qui dicit, non qui negat: cum per rerum naturam factum negantis probatio nulla sit. The proof lays upon him who accuses, not upon him who denies: as in the nature of things, the act of the denial is no proof.

Ei legitur in hæc verba, &c. It is read to him in these words, &c.

Ejectione firmæ. Ejection of a farm; trespass in ejectment.

Ejectione firmæ n'est que un action de trespass en son nature, et le plaintiff ne recouvrera son terme que est a venir, nient plus que en trespass home recouvrera damages pur trespass nient fait, mes a faser; mes il convient a suer par action de covenant ad comen law a recoverer son terme: quod toto curia concessit. Et per Belknap, la comen ley est, lou home est ouste de son terme par estranger, il avera ejectione firmæ versus cesty que luy ouste; et sil soit ouste par son lessor, briefe de covenant; et sil par lessée ou grantee de reversion briefe de covenant versus son lessor, et countera especial count, &c. Ejection of a farm is in its nature only an action of trespass, and the plaintiff shall not recover his term which is to come, any more than, in trespass, a man shall recover damages for a trespass not done, but to be done; then he must sue by action of covenant at common law to recover his term: which the whole court granted. And according to Belknap, the common law is, that where a man is ousted of his term by a stranger, he shall have an action of trespass against him who ousted him; and if he be ousted by his lessor, writ of covenant; and if by the lessee or grantee in reversion, writ of covenant against his lessor, and he shall count special count, &c.

Ejusdem generis. Of the same kind.

Elegit. He has chosen.

Elementa juris privati Germanici. The elements of the German common law.

Eliguntur in conciliis et principes, qui jura per pagos vicosque reddunt: centeni singulis, ex plebe comites, consilium simul et auctoritas, adsunt. The chiefs who expound the laws in counties and towns are chosen in the councils; the hundredors are present at all to advise and authorize as counts from the people.

Elisors (or) Eslisors. Chosen persons—(appointed by the court to try a challenge).

Elongatus. Eloigned.

Elongavit. He hath eloigned.

Emisit me mater Londinum, juris nostri capessendi gratia, cujus cum vestibulum salutassem, reperissemque linguam peregrinam, dialectum barbaram methodum inconcinnam, molem non ingentem solum sed perpetuis humeris sustinendam, excidit mihi, fateor, animus, &c. My mother sent me to London, for the purpose of entering upon the study of our law; when I hailed my initiation, and discovered a foreign language, a barbarous dialect, an improper system, a heap not only huge but to be supported by unwearied shoulders, I confess, my mind recoiled at the undertaking, &c.

Emptiones vel acquisitiones suas det cui magis velit. Terram autem quam ei parentes dederunt, non mittat extra cognationem suam. A man may give his purchases or acquired property to whom he pleases. But he cannot transfer, in exclusion of his kindred, the land which his parents have left to him.

Emptionis-venditionis contractæ argumentum. A proof of a purchase and sale being contracted.

Emptor emit quam minimo potest, venditor vendit quam maximo potest. A purchaser buys for the least he can, a vendor sells for the most he can.

En auter droit. In right of another.

En ce cas le ley entend le propreté de bestes en moy. In this case the law considers the property of game to be in me.

En cest court de Chancerie, home ne serra prejudice par son mispleadging ou pur defect de forme, mes solonque le veryte del mater, car il doit agarder solonque consciens, et nemi ex rigore juris.

In this court of Chancery a man shall not be prejudiced by his mispleading, or for default of form, but according to the truth of the matter, for the court decides by conscience, and not by the rigour of the law.

En especes au cours de ce jour. In coin of the present currency.

Enditer. To indict.

Englescherie. An Englishman found slain: report of an inquest in Canute's reign.

En la chambre des esteilles pres la resceipt al Westminster. In the chamber of the stars (or star-chamber) near the receipt at Westminster.

En la defence sont iij choses entendantz: per tant quil defende tort et force, home doyt entendre quil se excuse de tort a luy surmys per counte, et fait se partie al ple; et per tant quil defende les damages, il affirm le parte able destre respondu; et per tant quil defende ou et quant il devera, il accepte la poiar de court de counustre ou trier lour ple. In a defence these things are understood; if he defend the injury and force, a man ought to understand, that he excuses himself of the wrong imputed to him by the count, and makes himself a party to the plea; if he defends the damages, he admits the plaintiff able; if he defends where and when he ought, he admits the power of the court to acknowledge or try the plea.

Enlarger l'estate. To increase the estate.

Eo instanti. At that instant.

Eo intuitu. With that view.

Eo ligamine, quo ligatur. By that tie, by which he (or it) is bound.

Eo maxime præstandum est, ne dubium reddatur jus domini et vetustate temporis obscuretur.

That is chiefly to appear, lest the right of the lord be rendered doubtful, and obscure by the antiquity of time.

Eo nomine. In (or by) that name.

Eo nomine et numero. Of that name and amount.

Eo quod desiit esse miles seculi qui factus est miles Christi; nec beneficium pertinet ad eum qui non debet gerere officium. So that he ceased to be a knight of this world who became a knight of Christ; nor does any benefit belong to him, who ought not to bear any office.

Eo quod tenens in faciendis servitiis per biennium jam cessavit. So that the tenant has ceased performing service for two years.

Eos, qui negligenter ignis apud se habuerint, fustibus vel flagellis cædi. That those, who through negligence set a house on fire, be beaten with clubs and sticks.

Eo sunt animadvertenda peccata maxime, quæ difficillime præcaventur. Offences should be most severely punished, which are most difficult to provide against.

Eoth. An oath.

Episcopi, sicut cæteri barones, debent interesse judiciis cum baronibus, quousque preveniatur ad diminutionem membrorum, vel ad mortem. The bishops, as well as the other lords, should be present at judgments with the lords, unless they concern loss of limb, or life and death.

Equitas sequitur legem. Equity follows law.

Equites aurati. Knights with gilt spurs.

Erant in Anglia quodammodo tot reges vel potius tyranni, quot domini castellorum. There were in England, in a manner, as many kings, or rather tyrants, as lords of castles.

Erant omnia communia et indivisa omnibus, veluti unum cunctis patrimonium esset. All things were common and entire to all, as if it were one general inheritance for all.

Erat autem hæc inter utrosque officiorum vicissitudo ut clientes ad collocandas senatorum filias de suo conferrent; in æris alieni dissolutionem gratuitam pecuniam erogarent; et ab hostibus in bello captos redimerent. For this interchange of good offices existed between both—that the clients should contribute from their property, to portion the daughters of the senators; that they would give a gratuitous sum of money for the payment of their debts; and obtain their ransom when taken by the enemy in war.

Erigimus. We erect.

Escuage. Scutage.

Esse. To be; in being.

Esse optime constitutam rempublicam, quæ ex tribus generibus illis, regali, optimo, et populari, sit modice confusa. That a republic in which the monarchical, aristocratical, and democratical powers are moderately blended, is the best constituted.

Est autem magna assisa regale quoddam beneficium, clementia principis, de consilio procerum, populis indultum; quo vitæ hominum, et status integritati tam salubriter consulitur, ut, retinendo quod quis possidet in libero tenemento soli, duelli casum declinare possint homines ambiguum. Ac per hoc contingit, insperatæ et prematuræ mortis ultimum evadere supplicium, vel saltem perennis infamiæ opprobrium illius infesti et inverecundi verbi, quod in ore victi turpiter sonat, consecutivum. Ex æquitate item maxima prodita est legalis ista institutio. Jus enim, quod post multas et longas dilationes vix evincitur per duellum, per beneficium istius constitutionis commodius et acceleratius expeditur. For a great assize is a certain royal benefit, granted to the people, through the mercy of the prince, with the advice of his nobles; by which the lives of men and the integrity of their state are so wholesomely consulted, that they may decline the doubtful chance of battle, by retaining that which each possesses in the freehold of his ground. And by those means, they are enabled to avoid the last punishment of a despairing and sudden death, or at least the consequent disgrace and eternal infamy of that odious and reproachful word which basely sounds in the mouth of the vanquished. Therefore from the strictest equity was that legal institution framed. For the right which after many long delays could scarcely be evinced by battle, by the benefit of this institution, it is more safely and speedily decided.

Est enim ad vindicanda furta nimis atrox, nec tamen ad refrænanda sufficiens; quippe neque furtum simplex tam ingens facinus est, ut capite debeat plecti; neque ulla pœna est tanta, ut ab atrociniis cohibeat eos; qui nullam aliam artem quærendi victus habent. Truly the law is too severe in punishing thefts, and at the same time unequal to curb them; for a simple theft is not so heinous a crime, that it should merit a capital punishment; nor is any punishment so great, that it can prevent those from committing robberies, who have no other means of seeking subsistence.

Esto perpetua. Be (or live) perpetual.

Estoppel. To stop: a plea to prevent.

Estouviers. Estovers. Wood cut from a farm by the tenant for the uses thereof, and for other necessities.

Est quidem alia præstatio quæ nominatur heriottum; ubi tenens, liber vel servus, in morte sua dominum suum, de quo tenuerit, respicit de meliori averio suo, vel de secundo meliori, secundum diversam locorum consuetudinem. Magis fit de gratia quam de jure. There is indeed another performing, which is called heriot; where the tenant, whether free-man or vassal, upon his death considers his lord, of whom he holds the soil, entitled to the best beast or next best chattel, according to the custom of different places. It is done more out of favour than of right.

Est senatori necessarium nosse rempublicam ; idque late patet : genus hoc omne scientiæ, diligentiae, memoriæ est : sine quo paratus esse senator nullo pacto potest. It is incumbent on a senator to be acquainted with the laws of the republic ; and that lies open to a wide extent : in this knowledge every kind of science, diligence and memory is centered ; without which a senator can by no means be capable of supporting his functions.

Et dona claud' sunt semp' suspiciosa. And private gifts are always suspicious.

Et fuit dit, que le contraire avait estre fait devant ces heurs. And it was said, that the contrary had been done in former times.

Et gist tous temps deins l'an et jour. And it lies always within a year and a day.

Et hoc paratus est verificare. And this he is prepared to verify.

Etiam judicium tunc primarius, nisi illud faceremus, rescripti illius forensis, qui libertatis personalis omnimodæ vindex legitimus est fere solus, usum omnimodum palam pronuntiavit (sui semper similis) nobis perpetuo in posterum denegandum. Quod ut odiosissimum juris prodigium, scientoribus hic universis censitum. At that time an extraordinary opinion of that lawyer, who should be considered the chief protector of all personal liberty publicly expressed (always like him) that if we were remanded on the king's rescript, our application to be brought up to court would be ever after denied to us. Which judgment was recorded by all enlightened men as an abominable abuse of justice.

Etiam si ad illa personæ consueverint et debuerint per electionem aut quemvis alium modum assumi. Although those personal benefices should by custom be assumed by election or some other way.

Et ideo. And therefore.

Et ideo dicuntur liberi. And therefore they are called free.

Et non. And not.

Et omnes comites et barones una voce responderunt, quod nolunt leges Angliæ mutare, quæ hucusque usitatæ sunt et approbatæ. And all the earls and barons with one voice replied, that they would not change the laws of England which heretofore have been used and approved.

Et predict' quærens in propria persona sua venit et dicit quod ipse placitum suum pred' versus pred' defenden' ulterius prosequi non vult sed abinde omnino se retrahit. And the said plaintiff, in his proper person, comes and says that he will not prosecute his suit further against the said defendant, but from thence altogether hath withdrawn himself.

Et quod non habet principium, non habet finem. And what hath not a beginning, hath not an end.

Et sequitur. And it follows.

Et sequitur aliquando pœna capitalis, aliquando perpetuum exilium, cum omnium bonorum ademp- tione. And sometimes a capital punishment follows, sometimes perpetual exile, with the confiscation of all his goods.

Et sic de similibus. And so of similar cases.

Et si super totum, &c. And if upon the whole, &c.

Et stet nomen universitatis. And the name of the corporation may stand.

Eundo. In going.

Eundo, morando et redeundo. In going, delaying and returning.

Eundo, redeundo et morando. In going, returning and delaying.

Eum qui nocentem infamat, non est æquum et bonum ob eam rem condemnari; delicta enim nocentium nota esse oportet et expedit. It is not just or proper to condemn him who decries a bad man; for it is useful and beneficial that the misdeeds of bad men should be exposed.

Ex abundanti cautela. From unnecessary (or abundant) caution.

Ex arbitrio judicis. At the will of the judge.

Ex assensu patris. By the assent of his father.

Ex assensu suo. By his own assent.

Also any one may enjoy common with another, and the right of digging, just as the right of grazing, and the right of hunting, fishing, drinking, drawing water, and many other privileges, which are unbounded, of doing with free access and recess, and according to that which belongs to the said common of pasture.

J.

Jam illis promissis non esse standum, quis non videt, quæ coactus quis metu et deceptus dolo promiserit? Quæ quidem plerumque jure prætorio liberantur, nonnulla legibus. Now these promises cannot hold good, for who is there that sees not how a man might have made promises, when forced by fear and deceived by stratagem? Which matters are provided against, for the most part, by the prætorian law, some by the standing laws.

Jeofail. I have failed (or erred); an error in proceeding.

Jeo vous dirai un fable. En ascun tempsfuit un pape, et avoit fait un grand offence, et le cardinals vindrent a luy et disoyent a luy, "peccasti;" et il dit, "judica me:" et ils disoyent, "non possumus, quia caput es ecclesiæ; judica teipsum:" et l'apostol'dit, "judico me cremari;" et fuit combustus; et apres fuit un saint. Et in ceo cas il fuit son juge demene, et issint n'est pas inconvenient que un home soit juge demene. I will tell you a story.

Some time ago a pope had committed a great offence, and the cardinals came and said to him, "thou hast sinned;" and he replied, "judge me:" and they answered, "we cannot, because you are the head of the church; judge yourself:" and the apostle said, "I adjudge myself to be burnt;" and he was burnt; and afterwards he was a saint. And in this case he was his own judge, therefore on such occasions it is not improper that a man should be his own judge.

N.

Nam adipiscimur possessionem corpore et animo; neque per se corpore, neque per se animo. Non autem ita accipiendum est, ut qui fundum possidere velet, omnes glebas circumambulet; sed sufficit quamlibet partem ejus fundi introire. For we obtain possession by body and intent; not by body alone, nor mind alone. For it is not so to be taken, that he who is about to take possession of a farm, should walk over the whole of the ground; but it is sufficient, that he enter upon any part of his farm he pleases.

Nam de minimis non curat lex. For the law does not attend to trifles.

Nam et commodum ejus esse debet cujus periculum est. For the advantage should be his, who is also liable to the risk.

Nam ex antecedentibus et consequentibus fit optima interpretatio. For the best meaning is discovered by the matter which precedes, and by that which follows.

Nam exemplo perniciosum est, ut ei scripturæ credatur qua unusquisque sibi adnotatione propria debitorem constituit. For it is a mischievous rule, that implicit trust is to be placed upon that writing, in which any man may make another, by his own remark, a debtor.

Nam feudum sine investitura nulla modo constitui potuit. For a fee without possession could by no means be confirmed.

Nam leges vigilantibus, non dormientibus, subveniunt. For the laws relieve the watchful, not the slothful.

Nam nemo est hæres viventis. For no one is the heir of a living person.

Nam omne crimen ebrietas, et incendit, et detegit. For drunkenness both enkindles and discovers every crime.

Nam omne testamentum morte consummatum est: et voluntas testatoris est ambulatoria usque ad mortem. For every testament is accomplished by death: and the will of the testator is changeable unto death.

Nam qui facit per alium facit per se. For he who acts by another, acts by himself.

Nam qui hæret in litera, hæret in cortice. For he who doubts in a letter, depends in cork.

Nam quilibet potest renunciare jure pro se introducto. For any person may renounce a right introduced for himself.

Nam, qui non prohibet, cum prohibere possit, jubet. For he who forbids not, when he may, consents.

Nam quod remedio destituitur ipsa re valet, si culpa absit. For that which is without a remedy strengthens the thing itself, if no fault exists.

Nam quod semel meum est, amplius meum esse non potest. For what is once mine, cannot be more fully mine.

Nam silent leges inter arma. For the laws are silent during wars.

Nam verba debent intelligi cum effectu, ut res magis valeat quam pereat. For words should be understood by their full meaning, so that the matter stand rather than fail.

Narratio. A declaration; a count.

Natura brevium. The nature (or force) of writs.

Ne admittatis. That you do not admit (or commit).

Ne aliquis scholas regens de legibus in eadem civitate de cætero ibidem leges doceat. That no person directing schools for the study of the laws, in the same city, from henceforth lecture on laws, in the same place.

Necessitas culpabilis. A blameable necessity; a culpable extremity.

Nec lusisse pudet, sed non incidere ludum. Nor am I ashamed occasionally to have amused myself with trifles without making them a pursuit.

Nec magis est contra naturam morbus, egestas, aut aliquid hujusmodi quam appetitio vel detractio alieni. Nor is disease, penury, or any thing of this kind more against nature than avarice, or eagerness after the property of another.

Nec regibus infinita aut libera potestas. The power given to kings, neither unbounded nor at will.

Nec vero me fugit quam sit acerbum, parentum scelera filiorum pœnis lui : sed hoc præclare legibus comparatum est, ut caritas liberorum amiciores parentes reipublicæ redderet. Nor indeed has it escaped me, how severe it must be, that the crimes of parents should be expiated by the punishment of their children : but this has been excellently ordained by the laws, that affection for their children might render the parents more friendly to the state.

Nec videtur incongruum mulieres habere peritiam juris. Legitur enim de uxore Joannis Andree glossatoris, quod tantam peritiam in utroque jure habuit, ut publice in scholis legere ausa fit. Nor does it seem inconsistent, that women should be skilled in the law. For it is said, that the wife of John Andrea, the interpreter, was so fully conversant in the civil and common law, that she was bold enough to lecture publicly in the schools.

Ne deficiat justitia. Lest justice fail.

Ne episcopi sæcularium placitorum officium suscipiant. That the bishops do not usurp the office of secular pleas.

Ne faciat vastum vel estrepementum pendente placito dicto indiscusso. That he commit not waste or destruction pending the said suit.

Nefas. Injustice; wrong.

Neife. A bond-woman.

Ne injuste vexes. That you do not unjustly harass (or distrain).

Ne jeo poy trover ascum president en tout mes livres d'entries, forsque trois, &c. I cannot find any precedent in all my books of entries, but three, &c.

Nembda. A jury.

Neminem voluerunt majores nostri, non modo de existimatione cujusquam sed ne pecuniaria quidem de re minima, esse judicem; nisi qui inter ad- versarios convenisset. Our ancestors wished that no person, not only from an opinion of any one, but influenced even by the most trifling sum of money, should be a judge; unless one who would impartially decide between the parties in dispute.

Nemo ad regem appellet pro aliqua lite, nisi jus domi consequi non possit. Si jus nimis severum fit, allevatio deinde quærat apud regem. That no person appeal to the king in any suit, unless he cannot obtain his right at home. If the law enacted be too severe, then the king may be applied to for relief.

Nemo beneficium suum perdat, nisi secundum consuetudinem antecessorum nostrorum et per judicium parium suorum. That no man lose his benefit, unless according to the custom of our ancestors, and by the judgment of his peers.

Nemo bis punitur pro eodem delicto. No person is twice punished for the same offence.

Nemo debet bis vexari. No person should be twice disturbed.

Nemo debet bis vexari, pro eadem causâ. No person should be twice disturbed for the same cause.

Nemo est hæres viventis. No one is the heir of a living person.

Nemo in propria causa testis esse debet. No man should be a witness in his own cause.

Nemo invitus compellitur ad communionem. No person is forced against his will into a partnership.

Nemo miles adimatur de possessione sui beneficii, nisi convicta culpa, quæ sit laudanda, per judicium parium suorum. That no knight be dispossessed of his benefit, unless he be convicted of a crime which has been determined by the judgment of his equals.

Nemo tenebatur prodere seipsum. No man is bound to betray himself.

Nemo tenetur seipsum accusare. No man is obliged to criminate himself.

Nemo testis esse debet in propria causa. No man should be a witness in his own cause.

Ne nulles autres engynnes pur prendre ou destruire savagine leveres ne conilles, nautre desduit des gentils sur peine demprisonment dun an. No other engines to take or destroy deer, hares, or rabbits, nor any other sport of gentlemen, upon pain of a year's imprisonment.

Ne per scripturam aliqua fiat in posterum dubitatio, jubemus non per siglorum captiones et compendiosa enigmata ejusdem codicis textum conscribi, sed per literarum consequentiam explanari concedimus. That no doubt may hereafter be caused as to writings, we command that the composition of any book be not written down by the deceipts and condensed enigmas of notes, but we allow them to be explained by the meaning of the letters.

Νηπιος οὐχ ἐθέλων. Weak and unwilling.

Neque quid, neque quantum, neque quale, neque aliquid eorum quibus ens determinatur. Neither what, nor how much, nor what like, nor any of those things by which being is defined.

Neque quisquam agri modum certum, aut fines proprios habet; sed magistratus et principes, in annos singulos, gentibus et cognationibus hominum qui una coierunt, quantum eis et quo loco visum est attribuunt agri, atque anno post alio transire cogunt. Nor has any person a certain quantity of land, or fixed limits; but the magistrates and chiefs apportion every year, whatever quantity of land, and in whatever place they think fit, to the people and kindred of those men who have assembled together, and they oblige them to pass from that place the year following.

Neque societas, neque collegium, neque hujusmodi corpus passim omnibus habere conceditur; nam et legibus, et senatus consultis et principalibus constitutionibus ea res coërcetur. Nor is a society, or convention, or a body of this kind allowed every where to meet on all occasions; for that liberty is restrained both by the laws and the decrees of the senate, and the ordinances of the prince.

Ne quis plus donasse presumatur, quam in donatione expresserit. Lest any person be presumed to have given more than he expressed in the donation.

Ne recipiatur. That it be not received; lest it be taken.

Nihil dicit. He says nothing.

Nihil enim aliud potest rex, nisi id solum quod de jure potest. For the king can do no other thing, but what he can do of right.

Nihil operantur quæ tacite insunt. Those contracts which are tacitly agreed to, do not operate.

Nihil sanctius, nihil antiquius fuit; perinde ac si in ipso hoc numero secreta quædam esset religio. Nothing was considered more sacred, nothing more venerable; just as if some secret religion was contained in this number.

Nihil simul inventum est, et perfectum. Nothing is at the same time invented and made perfect.

Nihil tam conveniens est naturali æquitati unumquodque dissolvi eo ligamine quo ligatum est. Nothing is so agreeable to natural justice, as that every thing should be loosed by means of that tie by which it is bound.

Nil capiat per breve. That he take nothing by his writ.

Nil debet. He owes nothing.

Nil dicit. He says nothing.

Nil habuit in tenementis. He had nothing in the tenements.

Nisi. Unless; but.

Nisi captus est per speciale præceptum nostrum, vel capitalis justiciarii nostri, vel pro morte hominis, vel pro foresta nostra, vel pro aliquo alio recto, quare secundum consuetudinem Angliæ non sit replegiabilis. Unless he be taken by our special command, or by that of our chief justice, or for a murder, or for an invasion of our forests, or for any other crime, which according to the custom of England is not repleviable.

Nisi causa. Unless cause.

Nisi convenissent in manum viri. Unless they agreed to marry.

Nisi per legale judicium parium suorum vel per legem terræ. Unless by the lawful judgment of his equals, or by the law of the land.

Nisi prius. Unless before (or sooner).

Nisi sub scriptura aut specificatione trium testium, quod actionem vellet persequi. Unless by the writing or specific assurance of three witnesses, that he is willing to proceed in his action.

Nobiliores natalibus, et honorum luce conspicuos, et patrimonio ditiores, perniciosum urbibus mercimonium exercere prohibemus. We prohibit those more noble by birth, or conspicuous by the lustre of their honours, or richer in estate, to exercise base traffic in cities.

Nocturna diruptio alicujus habitaculi, vel ecclesiæ, etiam murorum portarumve burgi, ad feloniam perpetrandum. The nightly bursting of any dwelling, or church, likewise of the walls or gates of a castle, for the purpose of committing a felony.

Noli prosecute. That he is unwilling to prosecute.

Nomen generalissimum. The most universal name (or term).

Nomen hæredis, in prima investitura expressum, tantum ad descendentes ex corpore primi vasalli extenditur; et non ad collaterales nisi ex corpore primi vasalli sive stipitis descendant. The meaning of an heir is explained in the first investiture, it is continued only to the descendants from the body of the first vassal, and does not descend to collateral kindred, unless they be lineal from the body of the first vassal or stock.

Nomine pænæ. In the name of a penalty.

Non assumpsit. He hath not promised.

Non assumpsit infra sex annos. He has not promised within six years.

Non cepit. He has not taken.

Non demisit. He has not demised.

Non defuit illis operæ et laboris et pretium; semper enim ab ejusmodi judicio aliquid lucri sacerdotibus obveniebat. A recompense for their trouble and labour was not wanting; as some emolument was always allowed to the priests at an ordeal of this kind.

Non est factum. It is not his deed.

Non est inventus. He is not found.

Non feazance. Not having done his duty; non-performance.

Non fecit vastum contra prohibitionem. He has not committed waste, against a prohibition.

Non habuit ingressum, nisi per Guilielmum, qui se in illud intrusit, et illud tenenti dimisit. He had not entry but through William, who forced himself into it, and delivered it up to him now holding it.

Non habuit ingressum nisi per intrusionem quam ipse fecit. He had not entry but by the intrusion which he made.

Non habuit ingressum, nisi per Ricardum, cui Guilielmus illud dimisit, qui se in illud intrusit. He had not entry but by Richard, to whom William, who intruded himself upon it, delivered it up.

Non habuit ingressum nisi post intrusionem quam Guilielmus in illud facit. He had not entry, but after the intrusion, which William made upon it.

Non infregit conventionem. He has not infringed (or broken) upon his agreement.

Non in regno Angliæ providetur, vel est, aliqua securitas major vel solennior, per quam aliquis statum certiores habere possit, neque ad statum suum verificandum aliquod solennius testimonium producere, quam finem in curia domini regis levatum: qui quidem finis sic vocatur, eo quod finis et consummatio omnium placitorum esse debet, et hoc de causa providebatur. There is not in the kingdom of England a greater or more solemn security provided, by which any person can have a more certain condition, nor can he produce any evidence more solemn to verify his case, than a fine levied in the court of our lord the king; which is so called a fine, because it should be the end and completion of all suits, and for that purpose it was provided.

Non inveni aliquod warrant. I have not found any warrant.

Non jus sed seisinā facit stipitem. It is not right, but possession of right, that makes a stock.

Non licet alicui de cætero dare terram suam alicui domui religiosæ, ita quod illam resumat tenendam de eadem domo; nec liceat alicui domui religiosæ terram alicujus sic accipere, quod tradat illum ei a quo ipsam recepit tenendum: si quis autem de cætero terram suam domui religiosæ sic dederit, ut super hoc convincatur, donum suum penitus cassetur, ut terra illa domino suo illius feodi incuratur. It is not lawful for any person from henceforth to give his land to any religious house, so that he may take it again to be holder of the same house; nor is it lawful for any religious house so to take the land of any person, as to deliver it to be holden of that house, by him from whom it was received; and if any person from henceforth give his land for such purpose to a religious house and that he be convicted upon it, his gift shall for ever be made void, and the land be restored to the lord of the fee.

Non omnium, quæ a majoribus nostris constituta sunt, ratio reddi potest. Et ideo rationes eorum, quæ constituuntur, inquire non oportet: alioquin multa ex his, quæ certa sunt, subvertuntur. A reason cannot be given for all those laws which have been established by our ancestors, and therefore the reasons of those laws which remain established ought not to be demanded: otherwise many of them, which are determined, would be overthrown.

Non potest rex gratiam facere cum injuria et damno aliorum. The king cannot grant a favour to the wrong and damage of others.

Non pros; non prosequitur. He does not prosecute.

Non prosequitur breve vel sectam. He does not prosecute his writ (or suit).

Non sequitur. It does not follow; he does not pursue.

Non sequitur clamorem suum. He does not pursue his claim.

Non sine magna juris consultorum perturbatione. Not without a great disturbance of the lawyers.

Non sum informatus. I am not informed (or instructed).

Non suspicio cujus libet vani et meticulosi hominis, sed talis qui possit cadere in virum constantem; talis enim debet esse metus, qui in se contineat vitæ periculum, aut corporis cruciatum. Not the suspicion of any weak and timorous person, but such as may attack a resolute man; for the fear must be such as a man feels in danger of life or maim of body.

Non tenent insimul. They do not hold jointly (or together).

Non ullam habebant episcopi auctoritatem, præter eam quam a rege acceptam referebant. Jus testamenta probandi non habebant: administrationis potestatem cuique delegare non poterant. The bishops had no authority except that which they derived from the king. They did not possess the right of proving a will; they could not delegate the power of administration to any one.

Normanni chirographorum confectionem, cum crucibus aureis, aliisque signaculis sacris, in Anglia firmari solitam, in ceram impressam mutant; modumque scribendi Anglicum rejiciunt. The Normans change the making up of deeds, with golden crosses and other sacred marks, which was an established custom in England, into a wax impression, and they reject the English method of writing.

Nos divini juris rigorem moderantes, &c. We, moderating the rigour of divine right, &c.

Nota bene. Mark well.

Nota est sponsio judicialis: "spondesne quingentos si meus sit? Spondeo, si tuus sit. Et tu quoque spondesne quingentos, ni tuus sit? Spondeo, ni meus sit." A judicial agreement is noted: Do not you agree to five hundred if it be mine? I agree, if it be yours. And do not you also agree to five hundred unless it be yours? I agree, unless it be mine.

Novæ narrationes. New counts.

Novel assignment. A new assignment of trespass.

Novel disseisin. Novel ejectment.

Novis injuriis emersis nova constituere remedia. To enact fresh remedies for offences newly risen.

Novitas incognitæ disciplinæ, ut solita armis decerni jure terminarentur. It was considered a novelty of an unknown order, that disputes which were usually decided by arms should now be decided by law.

Nudum pactum. A void (or bare) agreement.

Nul agard. No award.

Nulla bona habet. He has no goods.

Nulla bona testatoris nec propria. That he has no goods or chattels of the testator.

Nulla bona vel catalla ad valorem. No goods or chattels to the value.

Nullam veritatem celabo, nec celari permittam nec murdrari. I will not conceal the truth, neither will I permit it to be concealed or stifled.

Nulla electio prælatorum sunt verbi Ingulphi, erat mere libera et canonica; sed omnes dignitates tam episcoporum, quam abbatum, per annulum et baculum regis curia pro sua complacentia conferebat. Penes clericos et monachos fuit electio, sed electum a rege postulabant. No election of prelates was purely free and canonical, are the words of Ingulphus; but the court of the king in its pleasure conferred all dignities as well of bishops as abbots by the ring and crosier. The election was in the power of the clerks and the monks, but they required the person elected to be approved of by the king.

Nul leverer ne lerce nautre chien per chacer. No hare-hound, nor lurcher, nor any other dog for hunting.

Nulli vendemus, nulli negabimus, aut differe-mus rectum vel justitiam. We will sell, deny, or delay right and justice to no one.

Nullius filius. The son of no person;—a bastard.

Nullius in bonis. In the goods of no person.

Nullum scutagium ponatur in regno nostro, nisi per commune consilium regni nostri. That no scutage be levied in our kingdom, unless by the general counsel of our kingdom.

Nullum simile est idem. Nothing alike is the same.

Nullum tempus occurrit regi. No time prevents the king.

Nullus balivus de cætero ponat aliquem ad legem manifestam, nec ad juramentum, simplici loquela sua, sine testibus fidelibus ad hoc inductis. That no bailiff from henceforth put any person to wager of battle, nor to wager of law, by his simple declaration, without credible witnesses being brought forward for this purpose.

Nullus clericus nisi causidicus. No clergyman is considered as such without a knowledge of the law.

Nullus de cætero vitam vel membra amittat pro venatione nostra. That no person from henceforth lose his life or limbs for our venison.

Nullus episcopus vel archidiaconus de legibus episcopalibus amplius in hundred placita teneant, nec causam quæ ad regimen animarum pertinet ad iudicium secularium hominum adducant: sed quicumque secundum episcopales leges, de quacunque causa vel culpa interpellatus fuerit, ad locum, quem ad hoc episcopus elegerit et nominaverit, veniat; ibique de causa sua respondeat; et non secundum hundred, sed secundum canones et episcopales leges, rectum Deo et episcopo suo faciat. That no bishop or archdeacon hold pleas in the hundred, by the episcopal laws, nor bring forward a cause which relates to the government of souls, before the judgment of laymen: but whosoever, according to the episcopal laws, is accused of any cause or offence, let him come to the place, which the bishop has chosen for this purpose; and there of his cause let him speak, and not according to the hundred, but according to the canons and episcopal laws, let him do right to God and his bishop.

Nullus liber homo aliquo modo destruat, nisi per legale iudicium parium suorum aut per legem terræ. That no free man be destroyed in any manner, unless by the legal judgment of his equals, or by the law of the land.

Nullus liber homo capiatur, vel imprisonetur, aut exulet, aut aliquo alio modo destruatur, nisi per legale iudicium parium suorum, vel per legem terræ. That no free man be taken, or imprisoned, or banished, or destroyed in any other manner, than by the lawful judgment of his equals, or by the law of the land.

Nul tiel record. No such record.

Nul tort. No wrong.

Nunc pro tunc. Now for then.

Nunquam custodia alicujus de jure alicui remanet, de quo habeatur suspicio, quod possit vel velit aliquod jus in ipsa hæreditate clamare. The charge of a ward is never entrusted, by law, to a person of whom there is any suspicion, that he could or would claim any right in his inheritance.

Omissis omnibus aliis negotiis. All other matters being omitted; all other pleadings being laid aside.

Omne æs alienum, quod manente societate contractum est, de communi solvendum est, licet posteaquam societas distracta, solutum sit. Sed nec æs alienum, nisi quod ex quæstu pendebit, veniet in rationem societatis. Jure societatis, per socium ære alieno, socius non obligatur: nisi in communem arcum pecuniæ versæ sunt. Every debt which has been contracted during the continuance of a partnership must be paid by the firm generally, notwithstanding the partnership be afterwards dissolved. But no debt, except that which depends upon profit, shall come to the account of the firm. One partner is not bound by the law of the partnership to pay a debt contracted by the other, unless the monies have been appropriated to the common stock.

Omnes comites, et barones, et milites, et servi-entes et universi liberi homines totius regni nostri prædicti, habeant et teneant se semper bene in armis et in equis, ut decet et oportet: et sint semper prompti et bene parati, ad servitium suum integrum, nobis explendum et paragendum, cum opus fuerit; secundum quod nobis debent de feodis et tenementis suis de jure facere, et sicut illis statuimus per commune concilium totius regni nostri prædicti. That all earls and barons, and knights and bond-men, and all free men of the whole of our aforesaid kingdom, have and hold themselves always well equipped in arms and horses, as it becomes and behoves them: and that they be always ready and well prepared to fulfil and perform to us their full service, when it may be necessary; according to what they should do of right for us, from their fees and holdings, as we have decreed at the general council of the whole of our aforesaid kingdom.

Omnes prædia tenentes, quotquot essent notæ melioris per totam Angliam, ejus homines facti sunt, et omnes se illi subdidere; ejusque facti sunt vasalli ac ei fidelitatis juramenta præstiterant, se contra alios quoscunque illi fidos futuros. All those holding estates, who were of the better order, throughout all England, became his subjects, and all submitted themselves to him, and became his vassals and took an oath of allegiance, that they would be faithful to him above all others besides.

Omnes res suas liberas et quietas haberet. That he should hold all his property free and undisturbed.

Omnia catalla cedant defuncto; salvis uxori ipsius et pueris suis rationabilibus partibus suis. That all chattels of the deceased pertain to him, saving to his wife and his children their just and reasonable proportions.

Omnia, quæ movent ad mortem, sunt Deo danda. All things which are instrumental to death, are deodands.

Omnibus qui reipublicæ præsunt etiam atque etiam mando, ut omnibus æquos se præbeant iudices, per inde ac in judiciali libro (Saxonice dombec) scriptum habetur; nec quicquam formident, quin jus commune (Saxonice folcright) audacter libereque dicant. All those who hold authority in the state, again and again I command, that they shew themselves upright judges to all, like as it is written in the dome-book (in Saxon dombec): nor shall they fear any thing, but boldly and freely declare the common law (in Saxon folcright).

Omni exceptione majores. Above all exception.

Omni privilegio clericali nudati, et coercioni fori secularis addicti. Stripped of all benefit of clergy, and condemned to the restraint of a lay jurisdiction.

Omni quoque corporali cruciatu semoto. Inhumanum erat spoliatum fortunæ suis in solidum damnari. All corporal torture being likewise removed. For it was an inhuman act, to imprison a man who had been deprived of the whole of his property.

Omniū gravissima censetur vis facta ab incolis in patriam, subditis in regem, liberis in parentes, maritis in uxores, (et vice versa) servis in dominos, aut etiam ab homine in semet ipsum. It is considered the most grievous violence of all others, committed by inhabitants against a country, by subjects against a king, by children against their parents, by husbands against their wives (and so, on the contrary) by vassals against their lord, or even by man against himself.

Omniū rerum immunitatem. An immunity of all things.

ΠΕΥΣΕΡΕΝΤΙΑ ΚΑΙ ΟΨΕΧΕΣΙΟΥ. Respect and compliance.

Reus. A defendant.

Revertendi animum videntur desinere habere tunc, cum revertendi consuetudinem deseruerint. The disposition to return seems to cease, when they leave off the custom of returning.

Rex allegavit, quod ipse omnes libertates ha- beret in regno suo, quos imperator vendicabat in imperio. The king declared that he possessed all the privileges in his kingdom, which an emperor claimed in his empire.

Rex debet esse sub lege, 'quia lex facit regem. The king should be subject to the law, because the law creates the king.

Rex et vicarius et minister Dei in terra: omnis quidem sub eo est, et ipse sub nullo, nisi tantum sub Deo. The king is the deputy and minister of God on earth, for every one is under him, and he is subject to no one, God only excepted.

Rex, &c. salutem. Scribatis episcopo Karl; quod Roberto de Icard pensionem suam, quam ad preces regis prædicto Roberto concessit, de cætero solvat; et de proxima ecclesia vacatura de collatione prædicti episcopi, quam ipse Robertus acceptaverit, respiciat. The king, &c. greeting. In letters to bishop Charles; that he henceforth pay to Robert de Icard his pension, which at the king's request he granted to the aforesaid Robert; and that he be appointed to the next church vacant in the collation of the aforesaid bishop, which the said Robert may accept.

Rex tenuit magnum concilium, et graves sermones habuit cum suis proceribus de hac terra; quo modo incoheretur, et a quibus hominibus. The king held a great council, and seriously advised with his nobles relating to this land, in what manner it should be inhabited, and by what men.

Rex versus inhabitantes de A. The king against the inhabitants of A.

Rex vicecomiti salutem. Si A fecerit te securum de clamore suo prosequendo, tunc pone per vadium et salvos plegios B quod sit coram justitiariis nostris apud Westmonasterium in octabis Sancti Michaelis, ostensurus quare cum idem B ad dextrum oculum ipsius A casualiter læsum bene et competenter curandum apud S, pro quadam pecuniæ summa præ manibus soluta assumpsisset, idem B curam suam circa oculum prædictum tam negligenter et improvide apposuit, quod idem A defectu ipsius B visum oculi prædicti totaliter amisit, ad damnum ipsius A viginti librarum, ut dicit. Et habeas ibi nomina plegiorum et hoc breve. Teste me ipso apud Westmonasterium, &c. The king to the sheriff, greeting. If A has made you secure to prosecute his complaint, then put upon his pledge and safe sureties B, that he appear before our justices at Westminster in eight days of Saint Michael to shew cause, whereas the said B at S, for a certain sum of money paid into his hands, had promised well and effectually to cure the right eye of the said A which by accident was hurt, the said B so negligently and inconsiderately applied his remedy to the said eye, that the said A, through the unskilfulness of the said B, lost altogether the sight of the aforesaid eye, to the injury of the said A in twenty pounds as he says. And have there the names of the sureties and this writ. Witness myself at Westminster, &c.

Rien in arrere. Nothing in arrear.

Riens per discent. Nothing by remainder; nothing by descent.

Roffure. A robber.

Rogaverunt omnes episcopi magnates, ut consentirent quod nati ante matrimonium essent legitimi, sicut illi qui nati sunt post matrimonium, quia ecclesia tales habet pro legitimis. Et omnes comites et barones una voce responderunt, quod nolunt leges Angliæ mutare, quæ hucusque usitatæ sunt et approbatæ. All the bishops asked the nobles to consent that those born before marriage should be considered legitimate, as those who were born after marriage, because the church held such for legitimate. And all the earls and barons unanimously replied, that they would not change the laws of England, which were hitherto used and approved.

Roover. A robber.

Romani pueri longis rationibus assem

Discunt in partes centum diducere. Dicat

Filius Albinus, si de quincunce remota est

Uncia, quid superet? poterat dixisse, triens: eu,

Rem poteris servare tuam! redit uncia quid fit?

Semis.—The Roman boys learn to divide a pound by long reckonings into a hundred parts. Let the son of Albinus say, if the twelfth part of a pound be taken from the five twelfth part, what remains? He was able to say one third: well you will be able to preserve your property! if the ounce be added how much is it? the one half.

S.

Sacerdos interroget dotem mulieris; et si terra ei in dotem detur, tunc dicatur psalmus iste, &c. That the priest ask the woman's dower; and if land be given to her as a dower, then let that psalm be sung, &c.

Sacerdotes a regibus honorandi sunt, non judicandi. Priests are to be honoured by kings, not to be judged by them.

Sacramentum decisionis. The oath of decision.

Sacramentum domini regis fregisse. To have broken the oath of our lord the king.

Sacrilegii instar est rescripto principis obviari. It is equal to profanation to oppose the order of the prince.

Sæpe quæsitum est an comitum numero et jure habendi sunt, qui legatum comitantur, non ut instructior fiat legatio, sed unice ut lucro suo consulant, institores forte et mercatores. Et, quamvis hos sæpe defenderint et comitum loco habere voluerint legati, apparet tamen satis eo non pertinere, qui in legationisve officio non sunt. Quam autem ea res nonnunquam turbas dederit, optimo exemplo in quibusdam aulis olim receptum fuit, ut legatus teneretur exhibere nomenclaturam comitum suorum.

It has often been asked whether those persons who follow an ambassador are included of right in the number of his train, not that the embassy may be better appointed, but perhaps factors and merchants who only consult their private gain. And although ambassadors have often maintained them, and wished to retain them instead of assistants, nevertheless it is sufficiently evident that they who are not publicly engaged in the service of the ambassador, or of the embassy, do not belong to him. But as that circumstance sometimes has caused debates, it was received as the best rule to be from thenceforth observed in some courts, that the ambassador should be held to produce a list of his suite.

Salvo pudore. Saving modesty.

Sancta Maria de arcubus. Saint Mary le bow.

Sanctio justa, jubens honesta, et prohibens contraria. A just ordinance, commanding what is right, and prohibiting what is wrong.

Sapientes, fideles, et animosi. Wise, faithful, and courageous.

Scaccarium. The Exchequer.

Scandalum magnatum. Defamation of great men.

Schismaticus inveteratus. A confirmed schismatic.

Sciant presentes et futuri, quod ego Johannes constabularius Cestriæ dedi et concessi, et hac præsenti charta mea confirmavi, Hugoni de Dutton et hæredibus suis, magistratum omnium leccatorum et meretricum totius Cestershiræ, sicut liberius illum magistratum teneo de comite. Salvo jure meo mihi et hæredibus meis. Know all men present and to come, that I John, constable of Chester, have given and granted, and by this my present charter have confirmed to Hugh Dutton and to his heirs the magistracy over all debauchees and prostitutes, throughout Cheshire, as freely as I hold that power from the earl. Saving my right to myself and my heirs.

Sciendum. To be known.

Sciendum tamen quod, in hoc placito, non solet accusatus per plegios dimitti, nisi ex regie potestatis beneficio. Be it known however, that on this plea, a person accused is not usually discharged upon his sureties, unless by the kindness of the royal power.

Scienter. Knowingly; wilfully.

Scientia enim utrinque per pares facit contractantes. For an equal knowledge on the part of both renders those contracting equal.

Scilicet, &c. To wit, &c.

Scilicet, per quas feudum amittitur. Si domino deservire noluerit; si per annum et diem cessaverit in petenda investitura; si dominum ejuravit, id est, negavit se a domino feudum habere; si a domino, in jus eum vocante, ter citatus non comparuerit. That is to say, the acts by which a fee is forfeited. If the vassal be unwilling to do service to his lord; if for a year and a day he neglects to seek after his possession; if he renounces his lord, that is, if he denies that he holds his fee from his lord; if on his lord calling upon him to court, being three times cited, he does not appear.

Scintilla juris. A spark of law.

Scire facias. That you cause to know; that you make known.

Scire facias ad audiendum errores. That you make known to hear errors.

Secundum consuetudinem manerii. According to the custom of the lordship (or manor)

Secundum discretionem boni viri. According to the discretion of a good man.

Secundum formam doni. According to the form of the gift.

Secundum legem et consuetudinem Angliæ. According to the law and custom of England.

Secundum subjectam materiam. According to the subject matter.

Securitas legatorum utilitati quæ ex pæna est preponderat. The security of ambassadors outweighs the severity of punishment.

Secus. Otherwise.

Se defendendo. In defending himself.

Sedente curiâ. While the court is sitting.

Sed non allocatur. But, it is not allowed.

Sed per curiam. But, by the court.

Sed quære. But, ask.

Sed quære de hoc? But ask concerning this?

Sed vide. But see.

Seisina facit stipitem. Seisin makes the stock.

Selecti judices de decuria senatoria conscribuntur: in urnam sortito mittuntur, ut de pluribus necessarius numerus confici posset: post urnam permittitur accusatori, ac reo, ut ex illo numero rejiciant quos putaverint sibi, aut inimicos aut ex aliqua re incommodos fore: rejectione celebrata, in eorum locum qui rejecti fuerunt subsortiebatur prætor alios, quibus ille judicum legitimus numerus compleretur: his perfectis jurabant in leges judices, ut obstricti religione judicarent. The special judges are selected from a committee of the senate: their names are put by lot into an urn, that out of many the requisite number may be procured: then the urn is sent to the plaintiff and defendant, that they may reject from that number those whom they consider would be inimical or improper from something: the rejection being declared, the prætor chooses by lot others in the room of those who are rejected, with whom he fills up the lawful number of judges: these things being done, the judges swore to the laws, that under the obligation of their religion they would judge.

Semiplena probatio. Half proof.

Semper dabitur dies partibus a justiciariis de banco, sub tali conditione, "nisi justiciarii itine- rantes prius venerint ad partes illas." A day shall always be granted to the parties by the judges of the King's Bench under such condition, "unless the judges in eyre come sooner to those parts."

Senatus consulta. Decrees: they related to the community at large.

Senatus consultum ultimæ necessitatis. A decree of extreme necessity.

Senatus decreta. The decrees of the senate: they related to private matters.

Sententia rerum divinarum humano sensu excogitata, palam docta, et pertinaciter defensa. An opinion of divine things devised by man's invention, openly taught, and obstinately defended.

Sequendo. In following.

Sequestrari facias. That you cause to be sequestered (or deposited in keeping).

Sequestrari feci. I have caused to be sequestered.

Servato juris ordine. The order of law being reserved.

Servi aut fiunt, aut nascuntur: fiunt jure gentium, aut jure civili; nascuntur ex ancillis nostris. Slaves are made so, or are born so; they are made slaves, by the law of nations, or by the civil law; they are born slaves from our bond-women.

Service de chivaler. Knight's service.

Servientes ad legem. Servants to a law; serjeants.

Servi nascuntur. They are born slaves.

Servitia servientium et stipendia famulorum.

The services of vassals and the wages of servants.

Servitium militare. Knight's service.

Servitium scuti. Scutage (or escuage).

Servitus est jus, quo res mea alterius rei vel personæ servit. Bond-service is a right, by which my property is subject to the rule or person of another.

Servitutes. Services.

Servus facit, ut herus det. The servant performs his work that the master may pay him.

Sex juvenes goshawks. Six young goshawks.

Sextus decretalium. The sixth book of the decretals.

Seyn. A drift net for catching pilchards, herrings, &c.

Si actio, &c. If the action, &c.

Si a domino ter citatus non comparuerit. If on being three times summoned by his lord he hath not appeared.

Si aliquis mulierem pregnantem percusserit, vel ei venenum dederit, per quod fecerit abortivam: si puerperium jam formatum fuerit, et maxime si fuerit animatum, facit homicidium. If any person strikes a woman in a state of pregnancy, or gives her poison, by which she miscarries; if the embryo has already been formed, and particularly if it has quickened, he is guilty of murder.

Si aliquis per superbiam elatus ad justitiam episcopalem venire noluerit, vocetur semel, secundo, et tertio: quod si nec sic ad emendationem venerit, excommunicetur; et, si opus fuerit, ad hoc vindi- candum fortitudo et justitia regis sive vicecomitis adhibeatur. If any person from excessive pride is unwilling to submit to episcopal justice, let him be called once, twice, thrice: but if after this he does not submit to correction, let him be excommunicated; and if it be necessary let the power and justice of the king, or of his sheriff, be used to vindicate this act.

Si antiquitatem spectes, est vetustissima; si dignitatem, est honoratissima; si jurisdictionem, est capacissima. If you consider its antiquity, it is most venerable; if its dignity, it is most honourable; if its jurisdiction, it is most extensive.

Si constare poterit. If it shall be made to appear.

Si curia cognoscere velit. If the court wish to certify.

Sicut alias, &c. As at another time, &c.

Sic utere tuo, ut alienum non lædas. Make use of your own property, so that you injure not another's.

Sic vos non vobis fertis aratra, boves;

Sic vos non vobis vellera fertis, oves.

Oxen, thus ye do not bear the ploughs for yourselves; sheep, thus ye do not bear your fleeces for yourselves.

Si debeat responderi, quousque, &c. If it should be answered until, &c.

Si decedens plura habuerit animalia, optimo cui de jure fuerit debitum reservato, ecclesiæ suæ sine dolo, fraude seu contradictione qualibet, pro recompensatione subtractionis decimarum persona- lium, necnon et oblationum, secundum melius animal reservetur, post obitum, pro salute animæ suæ.

If a dying man has many beasts, the best being reserved for him to whom it is due by right, that the second best be reserved for the church, without any craft, fraud, or contradiction whatsoever, for a recompense of the subtraction of his personal tenths, and oblations after his death, for the good of his soul.

Si dominum cucurbitaverit, id est, cum uxore ejus concubuerit. If he hath cuckold'd his lord, that is, if he has committed adultery with his lord's wife.

Si dominum deservire noluerit. If he be unwilling to do service to his lord.

Si dominum ejuravit, id est, negavit se a domino feudum habere. If he has renounced his lord, that is, if he has denied that he held his fee from his lord.

Si dominus commisit feloniam, per quam vasallus amitteret feudum si eam commiserit in dominum, feudi proprietatem etiam dominus perdere debet. If a lord commit felony, for which a vassal would lose his fee had he committed a similar offence against his lord, the lord should also, in such case, lose his right of the fee.

Si dominus feodi negat hæredibus defuncti saisinam ejusdem feodi, justiciarii domini regis faciant inde fieri recognitionem per duodecim legales homines, qualem saisinam defunctus inde habuit, die qua fuit vivus et mortuus; et, sicut recognitum fuerit, ita hæredibus ejus restituant. If the lord of a fee deny to the heirs of a deceased person possession of his fee, let the judges of our lord the king cause recognition to be made thereon by twelve honest men, as to what possession the deceased held therein, the day on which he died; and as it shall be recognised so shall they restore it to his heirs.

Si enim ipsi raptores metu, vel atrocitate pænæ, ab hujusmodi facinore se temperaverint, nulli mulieri, sive volenti, sive nolenti, peccandi locus relinquetur; quia hoc ipsum velle mulierum, ab insidiis nequissimi hominis, qui meditatur rapinam, inducitur. Nisi etenim eam sollicitaverit, nisi odiosis artibus circumvenerit non faciet eam velle in tantum dedecus sese prodere. For if these seducers through fear or the severity of punishment abstain from a crime of this kind, an opportunity of sinning will be afforded to no woman, whether she be willing or unwilling; because this same will of the women is induced by the crafty wiles of a base man who meditates seduction. For unless he entice her, unless by his hateful arts he beguile her, he shall not prevail upon her to give herself up to so great a disgrace.

Si equam meam equus tuus prægnantem fecerit, non est tuum sed meum quod natum est. If your horse get my mare with foal, the foal is not your property but mine.

Si fecerit feloniam, dominum forte concubitando.

If he commits a felony, as for example, by cuckolding his lord.

Si home aiant feffees a son use devant le statut de 27 H. 8. ust devise le terre al auter, and puis les feffees font feffment del terre al use del devisor and puis le statut le devisor morust, le terre passera per le devise, car après le feffment le devisor avoit mesme l'use que il avoit divant. If, before the statute of the 27th of Henry the 8th, a man having feoffees to his use, had devised the land to another, and then the feoffees make feoffment of the land to the use of the devisor, and after the statute the devisor died, the land shall pass by the devise, for after the feoffment the devisor had the same use which he had before.

Significavit. He has given notice.

Si home port ejectione firmæ, le plaintiff recouvrera son terme qui est arere, si bien come in quare ejecit infra terminum; et, si nul soit arrere, donques tout in damages. If a man bring an ejectment, the plaintiff shall recover his term which is in arrear, as well as in an action "wherefore he ejected under the term;" and if no term remain, then he shall have all in damages.

Si imperialis majestas causam cognitionaliter examinaverit, et partibus, cominus constitutis sententiam dixerit, omnes omnino judices, qui sub nostro imperio sunt, sciant hanc esse legem, non solum illi causæ pro qua producta est, sed et in omnibus similibus. If his imperial majesty has thoroughly examined a cause, and the matters in contention being maturely weighed, he delivers his opinion, be it known to all the judges, who act under our command, that this decision is a law, not only for the cause which produced it, but also in all similar cases.

Si in chartis membranisque tuis carmen vel historiam vel orationem Titius scripserit, hujus corporis non Titius sed tu dominus esse videris. If Titius writes a poem, history, or oration on your papers or parchments, it is not Titius, but you who are considered the owner of that work.

Si jeo mist mon clothes al un taylor a faire il poet eux conserver tanque satisfaction par le fesans. Mes si jeo contract ove un taylor que il avera tant per le fesans de mon appareil, il ne poet eux conserver tanque satisfaction pur le fesens. If I send my clothes to a tailor to make, he may keep them until he is paid for the making of them. But if I contract with a tailor that he shall have so much for making my clothes, he may not keep them until he is paid for the making of them.

Si judicium redditum sit, &c. If the judgment be given, &c.

Si juratores erraverint, et justiciarii secundum eorum dictum judicium pronuntiaverint, falsam faciunt pronuntiationem; et ideo sequi non debent eorum dictum, sed illud emendare tenentur per diligentem examinationem. Si autem dijudicare nesciant, recurrendum erit ad majus judicium. If jurors err, and the judges decide according to their verdict, they pass a false sentence; and therefore they ought not to follow their verdict, but are bound to amend it, by a diligent examination. But if they cannot reverse it, recourse must be had to a higher tribunal.

Simul cum aliis, &c. Together with others, &c.

Similiter. In like manner.

Si milites quid in clypeo literis sanguine suo rutilantibus adnotaverint, aut in pulvere inscripserint gladio suo, ipso tempore quo, in prælio, vitæ sortem derelinquunt, hujusmodi voluntatem stabilem esse oportet. If knights mark but a will upon their shields in letters made red with their own blood, or write in the dust with their sword, at the time they pay their debt of life in battle, such will should be considered valid.

Si mortuo viro uxor ejus remanserit, et sine liberis fuerit, dotem suam habebit, si vero uxor cum liberis remanserit, dotem quidem habebit dum corpus suum legitime servaverit. If, a man being dead, his wife has remained, and she be without issue, she shall have her dower; but if a wife remain with issue, she shall in that case receive her dower so long as she continues in a state of widowhood.

Simplex commendatio non obligat. A simple recommendation does not bind.

Simplex obligatio. A simple obligation; single bond.

Sine calumnia verborum, non observata illa dura consuetudine, qui cadit a syllaba cadit a tota causa.

Without a false interpretation of words, as those customary severities should not be observed, that he who errs in a syllable loses his cause altogether.

Sine die. Without a day.

Sine judicio parium vel per legem terræ. Without the judgment of his equals, or by the law of the land.

Sine qua non. Without which nothing is to be done.

Si non omnes. If not all.

Si non omnes qui rem communem habent, sed certi ex his, dividere desiderant; hoc judicium inter eos accipi potest. If all those who hold a property in common do not wish to divide it, but only some of them, that matter must be settled among themselves.

Si non sequatur ipsius vadii traditio, curia domini regis hujusmodi privatas conventiones tueri non solet. If the delivery of his pledge do not follow, the court of our lord the king is not accustomed to regard private covenants of this kind.

Si pares veritatem noverint, et dicant se nescire, cum sciant. If the jury know the truth, and say that they are ignorant of it, when they know it.

Si per annum et diem cessaverit in petenda investitura. If for a year and a day he delay in seeking for his investiture.

Si petens sectam produxerit, et concordēs inveniuntur, tunc reus poterit vadiare legem suam con- tra petentem et contra sectam suam prolatam; sed si secta variabilis inveniatur, extunc non tenebitur legem vadiare contra sectam illam. If a claimant prefers a suit, and that the parties afterwards agree, then the defendant may wage his law against the claimant and his proffered suit; but if the suit be found variable, in that case he will not be held to wager law against that suit.

Si plura sint debita, vel plus legatum fuerit, ad quæ catalla defuncti non sufficiant fiat ubique defalcatio, excepto regis privilegio. If there be more debts or more legacies for which the chattels of the deceased are not sufficient, let a diminution be made of every one's part, the king's privilege excepted.

Si quando. If when.

Si questum tantum habuerit is, qui partem terræ suæ donare voluerit, tunc quidem hoc ei licet: sed non totum questum, quia non potest filium suum hæredem exhæredare. If a man who possesses so much acquired property, wishes to give away a part of his land, this he may do: but he cannot give away the whole of his acquired property, because he cannot disinherit his son and heir.

Si quid misericordiæ causa ei fuerit, relictum, puta menstruum vel annuum, alimentorum nomine, non oportet propter hoc bona ejus iterato venundari: nec enim fraudandus est alimentis cottidianis. If any thing from a motive of compassion is left to him, for instance by the name of monthly or yearly allowance for provisions, his goods ought not on account of this to be sold a second time : for he is not to be defrauded of his daily nourishment.

Si quid universitati debetur, singulis non debetur; nec, quod debet universitas, singuli debent. If any sum of money be due to a partnership, it is not due to the individuals; nor do those individuals owe that which is due by the partnership.

Si quis ad battalia curte sua exierit. If any one relinquish his right to wager of battle.

Si quis aliquid dixerit contra testamentum placitum illud in curia christianitatis audiri debet et terminari. If any one declare against a will, that plea should be heard and determined in an ecclesiastical court.

Si quis baronum seu hominum meorum—pecuniam suam non dederet vel odare disposuerit, uxor sua, sive liberi, aut parentes et legitimi homines ejus, eam pro anima ejus dividant, sicut eis melius visum fuerit. If any of my barons or of my subjects should not bequeath or dispose of his money, let his wife, or his children, or his next of kin, and lawful relations, distribute it for the peace of his soul as may appear to them most proper.

Si quis felem, horrei regii custodem, occideret vel furto abstulerit, felis summa cauda suspendatur, capite aream attingente, et in eam grana tritici effundatur, usqueadum summitas caudæ tritico cooperiatur. If any person kill or steal the cat (the keeper of the king's granary) let the cat be suspended by the top of the tail, its head touching the floor, and grains of wheat be poured upon it until the top of the tail is completely covered by the wheat.

Si quis impatientia doloris, aut tædio, vitæ, aut morbo, aut furore, aut pudore, mori voluit non animadvertatur in eum. If any person from insufferable grief, or weariness of life, or from disease, or fury, or shame, has designed to die, it shall not be considered against him.

Si quis me nesciente, quocunque meo telo vel instrumento in perniciem suam abutatur; vel ex ædibus meis cadat, vel incidat in puteum meum, quantumvis tectum et munitum, vel in cataractum, et sub molendino meo confringatur, ipse aliqua mulcta plectar; ut in parte infelicitatis meæ numeratur, habuisse vel ædificasse aliquod quo homo periret. If any one, without my knowledge, is destroyed by my weapon or instrument; or if he falls from my house, or into my well, although covered and secured, or into my dam, and be broke to pieces under my mill, I may be punished by some fine; as it is accounted my misfortune to have possessed or erected any thing by which a fellow creature perished.

Si quis terram hæreditariam habeat, eam non vendat a cognatis hæredibus suis, si illi viro prohibitum sit, qui eam ab initio, acquisivit, ut ita facere nequeat. If any person possess hereditary land, he cannot sell it from his kindred heirs, if that man who obtained it at the beginning was prohibited from doing so.

Si rector petat versus parochianos oblationes et decimas debitas et consuetas. If a rector seek to recover from the parishioners the offerings and tithes due and customary.

Si recuperaverit tenementa de quibus vir obiit seisitus tenens reddat damna vid<sup>t</sup>. valorem dotis tempore mortis viri usque ad diem quo per iudicium curiæ seisinam suam recuperaverit. If she recover the tenements of which her husband died seised, that the tenant pay the damages, that is to say, the value of the dower, from the time of the husband's death, to the day on which by the judgment of the court she recovered her possession.

Si tamen evidenti argumento falsum jurasse convincantur (id quod superius iudicium cognoscere debet) mulctantur in bonis, de cætero perjuri et intestabiles. If however they are proved by manifest evidence to have sworn falsely (which it is the duty of a higher court to take cognizance of) a fine is levied upon their goods, and besides they are considered perjured and incapable of bearing testimony.

Si te fecerit securum. If he has made you secure.

Sit in misericordia. That he be in mercy.

Sit omnis vidua sine marito duodecim menses.

That every widow remain unmarried for twelve months.

Si universitas ad unum redit, et stet nomen universitatis. If a corporation be reduced to one, even then the name of the corporation stands.

Sit quilibet homo dignus venatione sua, in sylva, et in agris, sibi propriis, et in dominio suo: et abstineat omnis homo a venariis regiis, ubicunque pacem eis habere voluerit. That every man be entitled to his game, in the wood, and on the grounds belonging to himself, and in his ownership: and that every man abstain from the royal venary wheresoever he finds them quiet.

Si universitas ad unum redit. If the corporation is reduced to one.

Si uxor possit dotem promeri, et virum sustinere. If the wife could demand her dower, and of age to sustain a husband.

Si vasallus feudum dissipaverit, aut insigni detrimento deterius fecerit, privabitur. If a vassal has abused his estate, or has made it worse by any serious injury, he shall be deprived of it.

Sive et masculus sive fœmina. Whether they be male or female.

Sola, quæ de hostibus capta sunt limitaneis ducibus & militibus donavit; ita ut eorum ita essent, si hæredes illorum militarent, nec unquam ad privatos pertinerent: dicens attentius illos militaturos, si etiam sua rura defenderent. Addidit sane his et animalia et servos ut possent colere quod acceperant; ne per inopiam hominum vel per senectutem desererentur rura vicina barbariæ, quod turpissimum ille ducebat. He gave those lands, which were taken from the enemy, alone to his generals of the marches and to his soldiers; so that they should remain theirs, if their heirs should serve him in war, and never desert his service: saying that they would serve more attentively if they defended their own lands. He added to those lands cattle and slaves, that they might cultivate what they had received, lest through want of men or old age, the boundaries of his kingdom should be surrendered to a barbarous people, which he considered most degrading.

Solent fœminarum ductu bellare, et sexum in imperiis non discernere. The women were accustomed to be led out to fight, and their sex did not impede their succession to empire.

Solent prætores, si talem hominem invenerint, qui neque tempus neque finem expensarum habet, sed bona sua dilacerando et dissipando profundit, curatorem ei dare, exemplo furiosi: et tandiu erunt ambo in curatione, quamdiu vel furiosus sanitatem, vel ille bonos mores, receperit. The prætors, if they discover a man, who has no time or limit to his expenses, but who profusely squanders his property in waste and dissipation, are accustomed to appoint a guardian over him, as over a madman: and both shall so remain under the guardianship, until the madman recover his senses, or the profligate his good habits.

Solere aiunt barbaros reges Persarum ac Syrorum—uxoribus civitates attribuere, hoc modo; hæc civitas mulieri redimiculum præbeat, hæc in collum, hæc in crines, &c. They say that the barbarous kings of the Persians and Syrians were accustomed to assign provinces to their wives, in this manner; that each province provide an ornament for the woman, this for her neck, that for her hair, &c.
